Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 11.—Several members of Harvard's faculty have received letters from relatives in Germany asking that wheat flour and other foodstuffs be sent to them by parcel post.

Professor Heinrich C. Bierwirth, of the department of German, r ceived a request this week that 200 pounds of wheat flour and 100 pounds of bacon be mailed to relatives in Germany. The professor, who was born in Germany, is ar ardent defender of America's stand during the present war difficulties. He sought out the postoffice authorities and was informed that it would cost more than $100 to mail the desired foodstuffs to Germany. Professor Leo Wiener, of the department of Slavonic languages, who is a Russian, but has relatives in Germany, also has been asked to mail wheat flour.
